MISCELLANY.

BONAPARTE.

ON returning from his late fruitless Embassy to China, in the year 1817, Lord AMHERST called at St. Helena, and, with his suite, paid a visit to the illustrious Prisoner of the government of Great Britain. Mr. ABEL, who was one of those attached to the Legation, thus describes him in the account of his journey, which he has published:—

"Bonaparte's person had nothing of that morbid fulness which I had been led to look for; on the contrary, I scarcely recollect to have seen a form more expressive of strength, and even of vigor. It is true that he was very large, considering his height, which is about five feet seven inches; but his largeness had nothing of unwieldiness. The fine proportion of his limbs, which has been often noticed, was still preserved. His legs although very muscular, had the nicest symmetry. His whole form indeed, was so closely knit that firmness might be said to be its striking characteristic. His standing posture had a remarkable stateliness like firmness about it, which seemed scarcely to belong to the graceful ease of his step. The most remarkable character of his countenance was, to me, its variableness. Bonaparte has the habit of earnestly gazing for a few seconds upon the person whom he is about to address, and, whilst thus occupied, holds his features in perfect repose.—The character of his countenance in this state especially when viewed in profile, might be called settled delight. But the instant that he enters into conversation, his features express any force or kind of emotion with confidence and ease. His eye, especially, seems not only to alter its expression, but its color. I am sure, had I only noticed it while the muscles of the face, and particularly of the forehead, were in play, I should have called it a very dark eye; on the contrary, when at rest I had remarked its light color and peculiar glory learn. Nothing, indeed, could better prove his changeable character than the difference of opinion which occurred amongst us respecting its color. Although each person of the embassy naturally fixed his attention on Napoleon's countenance, all did not agree on the color of his eyes.

"There was nothing in the appearance of Bonaparte which led us to think that his health had at all suffered by his captivity. On the contrary, his repletion seemed to be the consequence of active nourishment. His form had all that tone, and his movement all that elasticity, which indicate and spring from powerful health. Indeed, whatever sympathy we felt for the situation of any of the prisoners, received no increase from any commiseration for their bodily sufferings: they were all in excellent plight."

From Dallaway's Travels in the Levant.

Fires at Constantinople, and conduct of the Turks at them.

FIRES are so frequent, that few months pass without them, and they are generally so furious, that whole districts are laid in ashes.*—Houses are so soon reerected, that the former appearance of the streets is speedily restored, and little alteration is ever made in their form.—Notice of a fire in Constantinople, or at Galatea, is given by beating a great drum from two high towers; the night watch then patrole the streets, striking the pavement with their staves shod with iron, and crying out Yangen var—"There is a fire," naming the place. The sultan is then summoned three times, and when the conflagration has lasted one hour, he is forced to attend in person, and to bring mules with him laden with piastres which he distributes with his own hands to the firemen who are very inactive before his arrival.—These are armed against accidents in the same manner as they are in London, and are equally expert and adventurous. Fires are extinguished by pulling down the adjoining houses, for the engines are very small, and borne on the shoulders of two men.

The perfect resignation with which a good Mussulman sees his house consumed by the flames, and himself reduced from affluence to poverty, has been often and justly remarked by others he exclaims Allah Kerim; that is "God is merciful," without apparent emotion, and has assured himself that the same Providence which hath made him poor and abject, can once more restore him to wealth, if it be his fate. As to the women, they have not the praise of such philosophy. They assemble in a groupe near the Sultan, and unmercifully load him with the bitterest revilings, particularizing his own crimes, and the errors of his government, and charging him with the cause of their present calamity. At such rencontres no crowned head holds only Sultan Selim his attention. As this is the only privileged time of conveying the voice of the people to his ears, and as women in Turkey say any thing with impunity, it is presumed that many of the fires are not accidental.

As a grand spectacle, detaching the idea of commiseration of the calamity from the present view, if a volcanic eruption be excepted, none can exceed a great fire at Constantinople. The houses being constructed with wood and frequently communicating with magazines filled with combustible materials, a vast column of flame, of the most luminous glow, rises from the centre, which, lighting up the mosques and contiguous cypress groves, produces an effect of superior magnificence.—In other cities, where the buildings are of stone, the flames are seen partially, or are overpowered with smoke.

* In 1663 seventy thousand houses were burnt; and in 1768 the conflagration was so extensive as to threaten the universal destruction of the city.

LOUISIANA.

NEW-ORLEANS OCT. 23.

Texas Expedition.

WE have received the following letter from an officer in the Army, dated,

Camp Bipley, (on the Sabine) Oct. 9.

"Since I left you in Orleans, I have seen the papers filled with false reports of a grand expedition under Gen. Long, in Texas. The impropriety of such publications I suspect is severely felt by those poor deluded men, who have been induced to leave a comfortable living in quest of enterprise and conquest; but none feel its effects so severely as the inhabitants of Texas, whose crops have been taken to supply the army, and the only recompense they now have is General Long's due bills, which are in no very great credit. I have been encamped here for some time past, and have watched the fall of this grand army—It has met the fate I anticipated. I can authorise you to say that the whole are dispersed or broken up. Gen. Long has gone to Galveston to Lafue; his wife is bending her course towards the Sabine. The officers and men are every day passing in, many of them without money or food. Nacogdoches is evacuated by them; only four or five sick men are left there. A party of twenty men some time ago went towards the Brazos—they are in a state of starvation and will soon be in.

I have has ended an expedition, which was cried up by some persons as being of much importance, but never exceeded 70 men, officers and all. It has ended as I wish all schemes may end, which are in violation of the laws of our country, and the laws of nations."

VIRGINIA.

NORFOLK, NOV. 16.

From Spain.

We are positively assured that the grand expedition at Cadiz is abandoned, and so great is the mortification at the necessity of it, that it is deemed infamous in the capital to speak of it. The only object now is to find a decent excuse for it. They, however, will have a very good one by this time, for we are informed that the fever having got amongst the troops in the fleet, was sweeping off all with an unsparing hand. The Admiral's ship at Cadiz, was most fatally afflicted. The money too, which was required, could not be spared for so frivolous a purpose as a military expedition to quell a revolution, being more pressingly wanted for—the King's marriage, in which more than a million would be necessary. The royal bride was expected to enter Madrid on the 10th of October.

It is said that Mr. Forsyth has made a peremptory demand on behalf of his government, for a considerable number of American prisoners in Spanish prisons, who did not enter into the Patriot service, but were trepanned by designing officers under false pretences; and that he has required a statement of charges against others.

NEW-YORK:

NEW-YORK, NOV. 20.

The Balloon.

At 12 o'clock this day, Mr. Guille, agreeably to his pledge to the public, ascended with his Balloon from the city of Jersey. He rose probably to the height of five hundred feet, when he cut the cords by which his car was suspended, and descended with his Parachute. He fell nearly perpendicularly about 200 feet before the Parachute, opened, when he was borne gently onward, and reached the ground about 4 rods from the spot from which he had taken his departure. The only injury he sustained was a wound in his thigh, which he gave himself in cutting the Parachute from the Balloon.

On descending, Mr. G. lost his hat before the opening of the parachute, but afterwards saluted the people by waving his hand, and it is scarcely necessary to add, that the salutation was most vociferously returned.

On striking the salt meadow, within a few feet of the Bay, he was taken up in his car, and borne back to the place of departure amidst the huzzas and shouts of the multitude.

The Balloon passed very high over the city, and judging from the direction it took, it is not improbable, that it may alight on some distant part of Long Island.

There were perhaps from two to three thousand persons upon the ground and probably as many more on the river passing over; and many thousands on the wharves and vessels along the North River, had a distant view of the exhibition.

November 23.

Late from Spain.

We learn from Captain Hudson, who arrived yesterday from Gibraltar, which place he left on the 13th ultimo, that Capt Reid, of the Hornet, was still at Madrid but was expected at Malaga on the 20th, whither the Hornet was about to proceed to receive him on board and thence directly sail for the U. States.—It was understood that on the receipt of the despatches by Capt. Reid, the American minister intimated to the Spanish government that he would then await their determination as to the final ratification of the treaty, for the period of nine days—but it was generally believed it would not then be ratified, and that Mr. Forsyth would demand his passports, and return home.

By the brig If, we have received Gibraltar papers to the 10th of October.—Advices had reached Gibraltar of the state of health in Morocco; from which it appears, that a number of the cities were wholly free from the plague, and that in other places it existed in a moderate degree. The yellow fever was subsiding at the Isle of Leon.—On the 30th of september, the number of cases were reduced to about 300, and the daily deaths to about 20.—In Cadiz, the fever appears to be raging to a very great extent. Private letters, received at Gibraltar early in October, represent the cases to amount to between eight and ten thousand. The number of deaths daily were officially known to be as high as ninety. In Seville, the fever was confined to a particular ward, and differing from the yellow fever of 1800, as the disease prevailing was not contagious.—The people had been ordered to remove from certain streets into the country.

November 23

Very Late from England.

The fast sailing ship Magnet arrived last evening in 18 days from Liverpool, whence she sailed on the 26th of last month. Capt. Ogden has favored the editors of the Mercantile Advertiser with Liverpool papers to the 30th ult. and London to the 24th.

The papers are not more than usual importance. It appears that the government of England begins to express alarm at the numerous meetings of the people, and as a measure of precaution an addition of 10,000 men is to be immediately added to the protecting force of the country.

"The information received from different parts of the kingdom, (says the Courier) of the progress of sedition, becomes, as it might have been expected, of more and more importance. The Radicals, rejoicing in the impulse given to their cause by the few foolish Whigs whom they have deluded, no longer conceal their detestable projects, but speak openly, and without disguise, "of the Revolution already begun."

The great meeting in the county of York was to be held early in November. Earl Fitzwilliam, lord lieutenant of the county, now 73 years of age, who was to head the meeting, has been removed from office by the Prince Regent.

The Oldham Inquest was finished, and it was understood the coroner's jury had agreed upon a verdict of Wilful Murder against the Manchester magistrates and cavalry; but it is said the verdict would not be promulgated till after the 1st December, in order to give time for parliament to pass a bill for indemnity.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—A material depression of the Funds took place yesterday, amounting in Consols to nearly 1 1-2 per cent. The first price quoted was 68 7-8 for the account, and the market remained stationary for some time after business had commenced; but when the decline began it was extremely rapid. The Foreign Exchanges have been looking downwards for the last fortnight, and yesterday fell in a greater proportion than on the two post-days preceding.

This day the funds have suffered a further depression. The consols at 1 o'clock were down to 66 7-8, and omnium at a discount of two per cent. The state of the country, and the mediated measures of government, are the ostensible causes of this fall.

The London Gazette of Oct. 23d, announces the appointment of the Earl of Dalhousie, to be governor in chief and captain general of the Canadas; and Major Gen. Kemp, Lieut. Gov. of Nova Scotia.

Parliament is summoned by proclamation, to meet on the 23d of November.

It was said on the continent, that count Montholon, came to Europe with his wife from St. Helena, disguised as a servant; that he has brought several letters from Bonaparte concealed in his clothes, and the three first volumes of Bonaparte's Memoirs, which are to be forwarded to New-York for publication.

The French chambers are to assemble on the 15th of November.

The Emperor of Russia has abolished the liberty of the press in Poland.

[illegible] the Spanish Government complaining the [illegible] on the Canadian [illegible] have been appointed [illegible] the Sultan, three of which are large fast rates. We hear also that an extra number of marine officers are to go out for the purpose of providing for expedition.

Mahon, Sept. 10.—On the 3d inst. an English and a French squadron were at Algiers; on the 4th the two Admirals came on shore; on the 5th they presented to the Dey, in the name of their sovereigns, the resolutions of the Congress at Aix-la-Chapelle, relative to the Barbary Powers, one of which was to the following effect:—

"That the Barbary Powers will no longer be allowed to possess on the same footing they had been; and that they must henceforth, in their political relations, consider themselves as to be viewed in the light of civilized nations," &c. &c.

"To this the Dey replied that he really could not comprehend what the Admirals would say to him; and they have, in fact, left Algiers without any further arrangement."

LONDON, Oct. 23.

Snow Storm.—Yesterday morning a great fall of snow commenced, accompanied by a violent hurricane. The wind blew from the north-west and has done considerable damage in and about the metropolis. The roads at the entrance of London were in several parts impassable, particularly at Walthamstow, where a number of trees were torn up by the roots, and lay across the highway, compelling travellers to make a circuit of several miles. The snow had also accumulated near a foot deep, and the pathways in the fields were not passable for foot passengers.

MASSACHUSETTS.

BOSTON, NOV. 24.

Diplomatic Spirit.

The following article is from a Spanish Paper, dated at Lima, Sept. 18, and from its spirited tone, may be considered as genuine, and characteristic of American feelings:—

With regard to the Florida Treaty, some new facts come out daily. Among other extraordinary circumstances, the Spanish Minister required of Mr. Forsyth a categorical answer, whether or not he was authorised, in case his Catholic Majesty agreed to ratify the treaty, to annex thereto a new article, in which the United States would pledge themselves not to acknowledge the independence of Buenos Ayres. It is understood that the American Plenipotentiary readily answered, that although his instructions gave him no powers to enter into new articles, but merely to urge the ratification of an instrument that already wore a perfect and official form; yet, nevertheless, he felt himself perfectly authorized to say in the name of his government, that such a proposition was totally inadmissible. He further added, that his impressions were, that the U. States would recognise the independence of Buenos Ayres, or any other of the free sections of S. America, which had sufficient strength and stability to warrant such recognition; and that the line of policy with regard to the new states of S. America, was totally independent of existing relations with Spain. He further informed king Ferdinand's ministers, that nothing but a desire to evince to the world the amicable disposition of the U. States, had prevented him from withdrawing from Madrid the very instant it was notified to him the ratification would not take place; adding, that in this spirit of forbearance, he should await the final instructions of his government, which he hoped to receive before the end of September. At the close of this interesting and spirited communication, Mr. Forsyth assured the Spanish Cabinet, that they were not henceforward to consider any one of the conditions of the treaty as binding on the United States.

From Europe.

Our last accounts from continental Europe, indicate some uneasiness in settling the affairs of the minor principalities of Germany. One account states, that a serious quarrel, had arisen out of the Carlsbad conferences, between the King of Bavaria, and the Elector of Hesse; the former having obtained at Carlsbad the cession of Hanau, and the latter, declaring that he will not give up a single village of his territories. It is added, that in consequence of this difference, troops were marching on both sides. In Prussia also, as well as Germany, discontents continue to arise, and fresh augmentations of the military force, are found necessary, to check the progress of democratic, or rather revolutionary sentiments. Russia is increasing her military force by a fresh requisition of 160,000 soldiers; these, joined to the established forces, will make the effective military strength of Russia to consist of little short of 900,000 men.

From the Spanish Maine.

Captain Rosemond from Curracoa, informs, that news had been received there, that the Patriots, under Gen. Bermudas, after having defeated the royalists, and captured Cuenta; had entered Maracaibo, and that the royalists were flying from Santa Martha.

[illegible] COURANT.

NEW-YORK,

Saturday, Nov. 27, 1819.

VERY LATE FROM FRANCE.

The Ship Sirius, Capt. Williams, arrived here on Thursday evening, in the quick passage of 21 days from Havre, having left that port on the 1st inst.—By this quick [illegible] we were favored with Havre papers to the 31st ult. but they contain nothing interesting, their dates from London being so late as those received at New-York.

Every thing appeared tranquil in France, and the harvests of the present year had been very great.

The French Chamber of Deputies were to meet on the 1st of Nov.

Mr. Ludlow, passenger in the Sirius, is the bearer of Despatches from our Minister in France, to the Secretary of State.—Mr. Ludlow left Paris on the 27th of October, at which time no information of the ratification of the Spanish Treaty had been received.

ARRIVAL OF THE HORNET.

The U. S. Sloop of War Hornet, Capt. Reid, arrived at New-York on Tuesday last from Cadiz, via Gibraltar.—She left Cadiz on the 23d, and Gibraltar the 26th of October.—Capt. Reid left New-York on Wednesday, for Washington, with the despatches, which are said to be important, though the purport of them has not transpired.

A letter from the American Consul at Gibraltar, dated Oct. 18th, received at New-York, says,—"The Hornet sails to-day for Malaga, to take on board Capt. Reid, who left Madrid on the 12th.—THE TREATY NOT RATIFIED."

The New-York Mercantile Advertiser of Wednesday last, says,—"Other private intelligence from Gibraltar is to the same amount, but Mr. Forsyth remained at Madrid, and it was believed the Treaty would yet be ratified, and forwarded to the United States by a Spanish messenger.

The Hornet left all the American squadron at Gibraltar Oct. 20th, except the Spark; she had gone to Algiers with Mr. Shaler. The Erie was to sail for home as soon as the Peacock arrived.

The officers and crews of the American squadron were in good health.—The sickness at Cadiz had considerably abated.

CONGRESS.

Congress will convene at Washington on Monday, the 6th of December.—Mr. BURRILL left Providence on Wednesday; Mr. HUNTER, of the Senate, and Mr. HAZARD, of the House, will leave here this day, to take their seats in Congress.

CIRCUIT COURT.

The Circuit Court of the U. S. for the Rhode-Island District, closed its fall term at Providence on Monday evening last.—The trial of William G. Cornell, for shooting William Kane, at Fort-Adams on the evening of the 4th of July last, was not completed until Monday, when the Jury, after consulting about an hour, returned a verdict of Guilty of Murder. The prisoner's counsel immediately moved for a new trial, for reasons stated in writing to the Court; and the District Attorney having consented to a continuance of the whole subject to the next term, the cause was accordingly continued, and the prisoner was remanded to the jail in this town.—The Court then adjourned, to meet in this town on the 15th of June next.

MR. CALHOUN.

It gives us much pain to state, (says the National Intelligencer of Saturday last) on the authority of a letter received by yesterday's mail, from Raleigh, that the Hon. J. C. CALHOUN, Secretary of War, lies dangerously ill, in Rockingham County, North-Carolina. He had proceeded thus far, when taken sick, on his return to the seat of Government.

It is said, that the Cyane sloop of war carries out two American agents, to reside on the Coast of Africa, to protect those people of colour who are desirous of returning to their native land, and who may be captured or ill-treated.

The Secretary of the Navy left New-York on Tuesday last for Washington, with Capt. Read, of the Hornet sloop of war.

The French frigate La Gloire, Admiral Duperne, and brig Eurlale, sailed from Hampton Roads on the 15th inst. bound to Martinique.

LET[illegible]

By [illegible] ed at [illegible] very [illegible] Liverpool [illegible] and Liverpool [illegible] have been [illegible] which, [illegible] head.

The [illegible] of the [illegible] various parts of the [illegible] Government [illegible] press [illegible] of the public [illegible] cautious [illegible] to be [illegible] tection [illegible] the country.

The London Courier, speaking of the accounts from different parts of the country, observes,—"We should tremble for the fate of this devoted land, if we saw any want of vigilance or courage in our government."

The London Sunday Monitor of the 24th of October, says,—"The situation of the country is at this moment so dreadful, that no man of common sense can view it without a horrid presentiment of the future."

The revenue of the realm, had fallen off during the last quarter, compared with the corresponding period of last year, to the amount of more than 1,150,000 pounds.—This diminution of the Revenue, with the threatening aspect of the internal state of the kingdom, had produced a great depression upon the funds.

Special Messengers had been sent abroad to the absent Members of the Cabinet, requiring their immediate return.

A letter from Manchester dated Oct. 28th, says,—"We shall have no more public meetings of the people until after the meeting of Parliament."

The American prize frigate Chesapeake, having been condemned at Plymouth, had been sold, and was to be broken up.

Bians' Declaration of American Independence.

The Philadelphia Gazette of Saturday last, says,—"We have just received a copy of this truly superb print, and cannot acquit ourselves for a moment to withhold the meed of unqualified praise and admiration. Independent of the momentous event which it celebrates, as a specimen of the fine arts of our country, it has no equal, and may safely challenge comparison with any similar production of the old world. The publisher has spared no pains, and shrunk from no expence, to make it what it really is, a splendid monument of patriotism and the arts; and we cannot hesitate a moment in believing, that his arduous exertions and great sacrifices, will be abundantly rewarded by the liberality and taste of the American people."

Philadelphia Banks.

The Cashiers of eight of the State Banks in Philadelphia have published a contradiction of the Report of the Committee of the Stockholders of the National Bank, in which it was stated that more than a million and an half of dollars was due by these banks, to the U. S. Bank; and assert, that the balance due to that Bank, is only 14,081 dollars.

Elegant Compliment.

We understand, (says the N. York Com. Adv.) that the Union and National Insurance Companies of this city, on Tuesday last presented an elegant set of Plate (consisting of a salver, a pitcher, and eight goblets,) to Capt. L. Kearney, of the United States brig Enterprise, as a compliment for his exertions "in procuring the restitution of the schooner Retrieve and her cargo, taken into Omoa, by Brown, who lately suffered here for piracy."

The Corporation of New-York has presented an elegant piece of plate to the widow of Capt. Lawrence; similar to that presented by the Corporation of Philadelphia.

Naval.

Letters from Gibraltar state, that the Erie would sail in a short time for the United States, with Commodore Macdonough and the rest of the navy officers lately arrested.

African Colony.

The American Colonization Society have determined to make a beginning, by chartering a vessel either in New-York, or Philadelphia, and sending to Africa as many persons with suitable preparations for a Colony, as that vessel will transport; leaving it at the discretion of their Agent, either to commence the settlement immediately at Sherbro, or to let the women and children remain at Sierra Leone, while the agents and effective men, with the friendly inhabitants of the country, may visit Sherbro, and make all necessary preparations for the first colonists, and for a larger number of emigrants the next season. The Colony will be protected from the slave-ships, by the armed cruizers of our own government, and will be a place of depot for slaves recaptured and restored to freedom.

[illegible]

Another West-India Hurricane.

By the [illegible] Lord [illegible] arrival at [illegible] days [illegible] advices have been received from [illegible] to the 7th ult. and [illegible] to the 21st. [illegible] the latter place of [illegible] parts of the Windward Islands, on the 5th and 19th of October. The effects of the latter were most lamentable having totally destroyed the prospect of the coming crop, which was extremely flattering. The accounts stated that the gale was even more severe than the dreadful hurricane of the 21st of September.—Several droggers had arrived to obtain supplies, the estates being totally destroyed—The accounts were principally from Barbadoes. The leeward Islands felt nothing of this gale.

From New-Orleans.

Letters from New-Orleans to the 25th ult. have been received.—The fever at that place, although somewhat mitigated in its malignity, still raged, making the town, as it were, "a grave yard."

The Sextons of New-Orleans, in a report to the Mayor, state, that upwards of twelve hundred bodies were deposited in the grave yards in the course of 60 days! The number buried, during the most fatal 60 days of 1817, was 400.

Another Great Fire!

Nearly sixty Dwelling-Houses and Stores, an Academy, and many out-buildings, situated on Water, State, Church, Union, Washington and Front-streets, in the City of Schenectady, (N. Y.) were consumed by Fire, on the night of the 16th inst.

Western Expedition.

In a letter from Colonel Johnson to one of the Editors of the Western Argus, he says—"I have no doubt of the complete success of the expedition under Colonel Atkinson. No further doubt exists of steam-boats being able to navigate the Missouri, notwithstanding we have our difficulties."

Dr. Robinson.

A letter to the editors of the National Intelligencer, from a gentleman in Natchez, (Mississippi,) announces the death of Dr. John H. Robinson. He was a gentleman of no ordinary character.—The traits which have most distinguished his life, have been the intrepidity, energy and secrecy which fit men for confidential missions, or for heading Revolutions. He was at the head of a former attempt to revolutionize Texas, which failed from adverse circumstances; and we are confident, that his decease will be a conclusive blow to the Expedition fitted out to revolutionize the Spanish province of Texas. Indeed, our correspondent adds, that the Expedition has already entirely failed of its object, for the want of funds and provisions.—We regret the death of Dr. Robinson, who, had he lived, might have been a distinguished as well as an useful man.

Canals.

It is stated in the New-York papers, that the Canal connecting the waters of Lake Champlain with those of the Hudson, would be finished, by the last of this month—and that Samuel Young, Esq. one of the Commissioners, with a large party, intended to embark on Lake Champlain, at the above period, and proceed through the Locks into the Hudson, provided they were not prevented by the frost. It is in contemplation in Pennsylvania, to form a grand central canal, to join the waters of the Delaware with those of the Susquehannah and Allaghany.

An Old Vessel.

A London paper of Oct. 8th, says,—"The Betsey Gains, Capt. Finch, arrived in the River on Wednesday, from Gottenburgh, she is the oldest vessel now in existence having been built in the year 1696. In the year 1713, she brought his Majesty King George the First from Hanover and although now 122 years old, there is still some of her original timbers on her."

The authority at Wilmington, North Carolina, have offered a reward of one thousand dollars for the apprehension of the incendiary who set fire to that town, which destroyed between two and three hundred buildings.

Maj Freeman Walker, of Georgia, has been elected to the Senate of the United States vice Mr. Forsyth, Ambassador to Spain.

The Legislature of Georgia has passed a merited eulogium on the late Gov Rabun, who had the difference with General Jackson.

New-York Savings Bank.

The New-York Gazette of Monday last says,—"The aggregate amount of the deposits, 132,254 dollars, is a convincing proof of the astonishing progress of this institution, and of its favorable impression on the public mind. The minutes, received by persons in the monthly visits of meeting, many of which are repeated weekly, manifest the sure and salutary operations of the leading principles of a savings Bank, to excite industry, economy, and a habit of saving among that class of thoughtless individuals who, in the days of youthful health and folly, seldom think of to-morrow, or that old age and infirmities can ever come,—Trifling as the deposit of a single dollar a month may appear, yet this apparently insignificant sum, if constantly saved in early life, will, with its accumulating interest, amount, in the progress of years, to a capital that will certainly afford a comfortable support in old age.—Besides the habit of saving a dollar when young, will have its influence on future conduct, and hundreds and thousands of dollars rescued from idle dissipation, may be the beneficial consequence. To inculcate this habit is the duty of every parent, guardian and head of a family who, perhaps, while instilling wholesome precepts in the minds of their offspring and dependents, may reflect and practice them themselves."

Another Dark Day.

The Rochester Sentinel of the 12th inst. says,—"On Sunday last the atmosphere was so thick with smoke, that at two o'clock, we were unable to read in the room without lighting a candle.—The darkness continued (except at short intervals of light) during the remainder of the day. The cocks crowed and the beasts returned to their barns as though it were night. Great and many were the fears excited—some prophesied that we should never see the light of another Sun."

The Zanesville (Ohio) Gazette of the 10th inst. says,—"The extraordinarily smoky atmosphere for some days past, has arisen, it is said, from extensive fires in the neighbourhood of Sandusky Coshocton, &c.—Although we are able to steer clear of one another in the streets, yet the thickness of the smoke is such as to render objects scarcely discernible the distance of 10 or 15 rods.

Grand Canal.

The New-York Gazette says,—"Already do the people of the Western States count the advantages they are to derive from this great work. It appears to be the opinion generally received, that New-York will be the great emporium of the Western Trade. A writer in the Kentucky Gazette, Ohio takes a comparative view of the export trade, which will probably go to New-York and New-Orleans, says, that the largest portion of the agricultural products exported from the rich tract of one half of Kentucky, will be drawn to New-York when a communication shall be opened between Lake Erie and the Ohio River."

Married,

At Columbia County, Georgia, on the 25th ult. Mr. DAVID HOLDEN, aged one hundred and two years and two months, to Miss ELIZABETH BAILEY, aged forty years.—Mr. Hodge was at Braddock's defeat, and served throughout the revolutionary war.

At Salem, Mr. STEPHEN BOWEN, of this town, to Miss ESTHER SHOVE.

Died,

At his residence in Kent County, Delaware, HENRY MOLLESTON, Esq. Governor elect of that State.—This is the seventh Governor whose death has been recorded in our paper within the last few weeks.

At Darlington Court-House, (S. C.) on the 6th inst. Mr. BENJAMIN GODDARD in the 26th year of his age, son of the late Mr. Stephen Goddard of this town.

At Troy, (N. Y) on the 13th inst. Mrs ELIZABETH NEGUS, aged 92 years, widow of Mr. Nathaniel Negus of this town.

At Bristol, on Monday last, Colonel SAMUEL WADSWELL, in the 65th year of his age.

At South-Kingstown, on the 18th inst. after a long illness, Mrs. MARY HOPKINS, widow of Mr. Jonathan Hopkins, aged 87 years.

At Portsmouth on Tuesday last, Miss FREEBORN CHASE, daughter of Mr. Holder Chase, aged 38 years.

In this town on Sunday last, Mrs. ELIZABETH HAZARD, widow of Mr. Gideon Hazard of South-Kingstown.

On Wednesday last, Miss ELIZABETH M. ALBRO, only daughter of Mr. Samuel S. Albro, in the 20th year of her age.—Amiable and pleasing in her person, and connecting with a short life a peculiar sweetness of behaviour, she attracted the esteem of all her acquaintance.—Her patience appeared equal to her trials, and continued to her last moments.—As a child she was dutiful, as a sister affectionate; in her friendship steady and uniform; we trust her rest is in Heaven.

Yesterday morning, Mrs. ELANA TAWNEY, wife of Mr. James Tawney, in the 19th year of her age.—Funeral to-morrow Afternoon, immediately after disappointment, from his dwelling near the State-House.—Relatives and friends are requested to attend, without further invitation.

POETRY.

For the Mercury.

THE ÆOLIAN HARP.

WHAT! sound angels perchance on the gale,
Soft as the music of the skies,
Breathing its sweetest melodies,
Impassion'd tones that sink and rise,
To charm this earthly vale!

What! spirit, from his native heav'n,
Alternately sublime and gay,
Lingers along life's rugged way,
With minstrelsy and hallow'd lay,
Awhile to mortals giv'n!

It is no harmony or voice,
From heav'nly blest seraphic spheres,
Nor cherub of eternal years,
That hymns delightful on our ears,
His strain of rapture'd joys.

Ah! 'tis a sylph, who sweeps the string,
And murm'ring floats upon the breeze,
Warbles with fluency and ease,
Bucolics as lonely hermit's please,
Or distant seraph's bring.

Strike, gentle visitor, the wire.—
I love, at evening's solemn hour,
When melancholy dreams have pow'r,
To ponder in my summer bow'r,
The musings of thy lyre.

DAYS OF CHILDHOOD.

THERE was a calm scene my infancy chose,
Where the riv'let stream'd over the lea,
In the midst of the fountain, a sweet spot arose,
Like an isle, in the midst of the sea.

Here oft with my fellows, I waded to lead,
And look'd at the prospect around,
Delighted to fix my firm step in the sand,
'Till a seat on the rushes I found.

And oft too, I stretch'd forth my hook and my line,
As the fishes skipp'd over the flood,
Saw their bright silver-fins in the blue water shine,
Though envelop'd with regions of mud.

Yet lately I look'd, and the spot was not there,
But the fountain continued to glide,
The joys of my childhood, had vanish'd in air,
With the island in midst of the tide.
